Could your family survive if you only brought home $320* a week?

Hundreds of thousands of British Columbians live in poverty.

Poor health, increased family stress, diminished school success for children and higher justice system costs – United Way is working to address the underlying causes of social problems, like poverty, before they become crisis.

With your help, we are creating a better future for Northern British Columbia children, families, and seniors. Without you, there would be no way.

With a full stomach, Sara is ready for play and learning.

Growing up in poverty can mean going hungry. United Way provides funding for programs and services ensuring kids have the proper nutrition and social interaction to be ready for the learning school provides. Help kids get the best possible start in life.

Because of a mentor, John won't drop out of school.

Kids who feel disconnected run the risk of bullying, crime and gang violence. United Way provides funding for out-of-school programs for children and education programs for parents to ensure kids grow up healthy, happy and resilient. Help kids make the right choices.

Because of an outreach program, Jack lives life fully.

Isolation is a fact of life for many seniors. But, it doesn't have to be. United Way provides funding for social and wellness programs, housing and caregiver support and transportation services. Help seniors stay active and independent.

Your gift makes a difference.

Your gift provides children a good start in life and helps them develop to their full potential, and it helps seniors to keep their independence.

$10* Your gift could provide healthy food to 36 people challenged by poverty.

$25* Your gift could provide 9 families access to after-school drop-in programs for school-age children five days a week.

$50* Your gift could provide 144 newcomer grandparents and grandchildren access to drop-in programming which strengthens family bonds, helps lower school drop-out rates and increases lifelong learning for kids.

*Per Pay (Examples are based on 26 pay periods a year).

Working Together.
